Partnerships for Jewish Schools

PaJeS (Partnerships for Jewish Schools) is a non-profit cross-communal organisation whose goal is to identify the areas in which Jewish schools across the UK can work together, and to provide them with high quality support, services and strategy to help them achieve their goals.

We would like to announce that from January 2016, we will be working in partnership with Jewish Interactive.

Jewish Interactive are recognised experts in the provision of ICT for schools. By working together, we can ensure that this expertise is used to support Jewish schools in the most efficient and effective way.

In partnership with PaJeS, Jewish Interactive will be providing support to schools in four key areas:

1. Software and Hardware support
2. Teacher training and support
3. Internet safety programmes for teachers, students and parents
4. Procurement services

Rabbi David Meyer, Executive Director of PaJeS, said: "The partnership between PaJeS and Jewish Interactive is an exciting and important development for the school's community, ensuring the most efficient use of our resources, whilst at the same time enhancing the quality of support we offer to schools."

Chana Kanzen, UK Director of Jewish Interactive, said: "Jewish Interactive has grown rapidly in three years, from a grass roots organisation, to a multi- faceted charity that is working with 98 settings in the UK. Partnering with PaJeS enables us to reach more schools effectively, ensures communal funds are efficiently used and ultimately will help to improve our children's education - a mission we both share."
